

45 Years of Canine Companions for Independence

by Heidi Petschauer

Canine Companions for Independence is celebrating 45 years. Throughout that time, this organization has helped so many veterans, and people living with disabilities and/or limited mobility regain their freedom and independence. This season, we want to encourage you to join our ongoing mission to support this big-hearted organization.

You see, whether it's children, adults, or veterans, a trained assistance dog can do so much to increase one's mobility and provide a much-needed boost to people's morale.

Here at Petschauer Insurance, we want to make sure individuals are given the opportunity to have a furry friend that can help them with their day-to-day, regardless of their ability to pay.

We believe wholeheartedly in the work done by Canine Companions for Independence and how having a service dog around can give life a new meaning for people with disabilities. If you would like to help, please get in contact with us and we'll show you how you can give back without even having to donate your own money.

You are invited to take part in helping this life-changing goal. Call us, it's FREE!

UNWRAP THIS Brussels Sprouts Tarte Tatin

If you are looking for the perfect side to your ham or turkey, or for a dish that can stand alone for your vegetarian folks, stop right here! This unique and hearty recipe is so satisfying, you won't need to bake multiple casseroles to make this season unforgettable for your family. Seriously, consider this our gift to you!

INGREDIENTS:

- Cooking spray
- 2 tablespoons olive oil, divided
- 1 pound fresh Brussels sprouts, halved lengthwise (4 cups)
- 1/4 cup water
- 1/2 cup chopped shallots
- 2 tablespoons white balsamic vinegar
- 2 tablespoons honey
- 1 tablespoon chopped fresh thyme
- 1 teaspoon kosher salt
- 1/4 teaspoon black pepper
- 1 (9-inch) frozen whole-wheat pie dough, thawed

HOW TO MAKE IT:

• Preheat oven to 400°F. Lightly coat an 8-inch round cake pan with cooking spray. Heat 1 tablespoon oil in a large nonstick skillet over medium-high. Add sprouts, cut sides down; cook, stirring occasionally, until beginning to brown, about 5 minutes. Add 1/4 cup water; reduce heat to medium. Cover and cook, undisturbed, until sprouts are tender when pierced with the tip of a knife, about 4 minutes. Transfer to prepared cake pan; arrange evenly, cut sides down.

• Wipe skillet clean. Add remaining 1 tablespoon oil; heat over medium-low. Add shallots; cook, stirring often, until softened, 3 to 4 minutes. Stir in vinegar, honey, thyme, salt, and pepper; cook, stirring constantly, until liquid is slightly syrupy, about 2 minutes. Drizzle evenly over sprouts. Drape pie dough over sprouts, tucking edges into sides of the cake pan. Prick top all over with a fork or tip of a knife.

• Bake at 400°F until crust is golden brown, 25 to 30 minutes. Transfer to a wire rack to cool for 5 minutes. Carefully invert onto a serving plate.

Tip: The key to delicious Brussels sprouts is to cook them just enough so their flavor stays earthy-sweet and their texture tender without too much give. They're best served right away, so put your bells on and be ready to raise up your fork!

PROTECT & GUARD Miracle on 36th St.

Johnny woke up to the smell of smoke. It was eleven o'clock at night on December 24th. Because of his anxiety over the exciting surprises that were surely waiting to unravel in the morning, he was barely asleep anyway. Sensing trouble, he jumped out of bed and knocked on his parents' door. "Mom, dad, something is happening downstairs; please wake up!" Joyce was up within seconds, her heart was racing, and she started to scream "fire!" Joel was quick to follow. "Stay here. I'll go down to see where it's coming from."

The lights on the tree had ignited a fire after being in close contact with the wrapping paper on one of the tall gifts. Johnny and Joyce heard the sound of the fire extinguisher being triggered, as Joel exclaimed, "It was the tree. I've got it under control now."

"Honey, can we come down? Are you okay?" asked Joyce. "Phew! Yes, I am okay - the tree, not so much." Johnny ran down the stairs as fast as he could to assess the damage. Looking at his dad's devastated expression, he knew he had to hold in the tears that wanted to come out so badly. The last thing he wanted was to have a sad Christmas. "Don't worry, daddy, at least we're together and safe."

The firemen were now blocking 36th Street while evaluating the incident and ensuring safety protocols were in place. "I hope you all understand how important it is to keep your smoke detector functional at all times. What would've happened if your ten-year-old hadn't woken up?" Joel and Joyce knew not ever to take that lightly again. At that moment, they were so grateful - their lives had been spared, and Johnny would have many more opportunities for a joyous Christmas morning. Not this year, though, they though. Feeling exhausted, the three of them fell asleep in each other's arms, not too far from the burned down tree and gifts, which had all become a pile of rubble.

Shortly after dawn, Nick, Joel's brother, who was in the Army, and had been deployed overseas, arrived at their house unexpectedly. Light sleeper Johnny heard him come in, and the two of them decided to work some quiet magic together. By the time Joyce and Joel woke up, all the mess was gone, and Johnny had a big smile on his face. "Mom, Dad, I want you to see something really special. Meet our Tree of Life."

Joyce and Joel couldn't believe their eyes - or noses. Nick standing right in front of them, handing them some delicious-smelling peppermint hot cocoa, and Johnny had built the most spectacular tree of all time! It was made of all of his favorite toys and family objects, beautifully arranged in the family room. "Johnny, it's magnificent! We're only sorry you don't have any gifts to open now." Johnny quickly replied, "I don't need them! Making this tree made me realize I already have all the gifts I could possibly wish for, and they will never get burned by any fire."

If a ten-year-old can get to that conclusion after one eventful night, we trust that you too will find that the joy of the holidays is in appreciating the small things as much as the big ones; the tangible things, as much as those you cannot touch, such as memories and love - especially as we are still restricted by a pandemic. If you're having a hard time locating those opportunities for joy in your own life, these considerations may offer some perspective:

1. Because you probably won't have as much company this year, you can give the idea of hosting the "perfect" holiday party a rest. Chasing that idealized version can sometimes create much stress and anxiety. Be kind to yourself - keep it realistic, and be happy that Zoom exists!

2. By perhaps visiting fewer stores in person, you may have extra time to show support to your significant other, friend, sibling, or favorite nonprofit organization. Offer that help - even if it's only an ear - and allow non-materialism to fill you with a sense of purpose.

3. Do you have a pet? Then, you probably get face-to-face with pure, innocent joy every single day. Don't take that for granted this time of year simply because you are rushing around to check things off your list.

4. Similar to Johnny, Joyce, Joel, and Nick, you can indulge in some delicious hot cocoa! You may avoid it all year, and now - oh now - 'tis the season to allow yourself yet another cup.

5. Guess what? You may rejoice in the fact that it is okay to take some time out for yourself, even if it's only a few minutes of solitude in the morning or before you go to bed. Claim that right and relax, do a crossword puzzle, finally start reading that book you bought, or simply enjoy your own company.

6. Feel free to jump for joy very high on this one: At any time this month, you can get a free assessment by a professional at our agency regarding your best coverage options. You don't even have to be or become a customer!

7. Even if you find them a bit cheesy, you can't rob yourself of the special feeling that follows telling Alexa to play holiday songs. There's something about Frank Sinatra's, Michael Bublé's, and Mariah Carey's voice in December that is, yes, jolly!

Speaking of Frank Sinatra, Winter Wonderland was playing when Joel's phone beeped. He had forgotten that before leaving, the Chief fireman handed him a report and told him to contact the insurance company. Joel immediately sent a message to his agent through the agency's mobile app and didn't think that would do much at all. He could always deal with that later. However, that caring agent who got the message felt the family deserved to receive at least this one gift then - the assurance that their losses would be covered entirely by their insurance. To top it all off, they had also noticed an opportunity to apply a new discount to another one of Joel's policies and wanted to give that good news as well!

Joel looked at Johnny's tree and smiled, now gripping a new meaning for it. He felt very good about his recent decision to properly protect the things that mattered most in their lives - and to bundle all of those policies. "It's really beautiful all together like that, isn't it?" We say it sure is.

Have a joyous holiday time, everyone!

You're a SMART TOUGH SOFT Cookie

Yes, you obviously know quite a bit about cookies. They come in such a wide variety that surely there is at least one flavor you love. You may go for certain types based on your taste preferences or even your mood at a given moment. However, your favorite kind of cookie also depends on the kind of person you are. Bet you didn't know that! December 18th is Bake Cookies Day, and you'll likely pick the one that is the flour and sugar version of you. What's that, though?

Snickerdoodles
Incredibly modest. Never takes credit and prefers to stay in the shadows, even when recognition is well deserved.

Peanut Butter
Very intelligent. A high IQ allows for great performance while under pressure. Skillful handling of stressful situations highlights noteworthy patience and composure.

Shortbread Introvert and lonely at times, quietly yearns to be noticed. Outstanding work ethic and skills gather the admiration of others, though being timid prevents recognizing it.

Oatmeal Raisin
While a little plain on the surface, it has many subtle personality dimensions. Sometimes down to earth and crunchy. Other times, sweet and a little gooey.

Black and White Cookie
Often feels conflicted in life, pulled in opposite directions. When doing well, the air is sweet as sugar. Otherwise, prepare for wicked!

Chocolate Chip Cookie
Traditional and conservative, it's almost always comforting. Being friendly and easy to get to know drives effortless popularity.

Jam Cookie
On the outside, projects a straight-laced, innocent vibe. On the inside, shows much complexity, flavor, and exotic twists.

Got yourself all figured out? Only one thing left to do now...Bake!

DID YOU KNOW

Having unusual thoughts is not an unusual experience these days. There's a reconfigured world around us, and we're all trying to make sense of it. The result is lots of thoughts. Do they mean something? Maybe. How do we find out?

Having unusual thoughts is not an unusual experience these days. There's a reconfigured world around us, and we're all trying to make sense of it. The result is lots of thoughts. Do they mean something? Maybe. How do we find out?

We've come across Morning Pages as a technique to help clarify, comfort, provoke, cajole, prioritize and synchronize those thoughts - and life in general. It entails three pages of longhand, stream-of-consciousness writing, done first thing in the morning. We know what you're thinking - we thought it too: "There is no way I can dedicate 30 minutes of my morning to something abstract like that." Believe us: we were dead wrong. "I'm not a writer." Wrong again. If you can form words from letters, you are too a writer. Besides, December 7th is Letter Writing Day, so you can honor it by writing a letter to...self.

Honestly, we think Morning Pages are the only letter-type of writing you need to do this season to bring about that miracle you've been secretly believing in. Why? Because you'll end up increasingly able to calm your anxieties, silence your inner critic, produce more and better insights, and resolve more internal and external dilemmas. Where do you sign up? Simply say yes and follow these simplest of simple rules:

LIFEWISE DAY after DAY

by Jeannine Landers

1. Do not overthink it: This isn't art or science, and there is no wrong way to do it. You can write about whatever is on your mind.
2. Must be done first thing in the morning: You're trying to catch yourself before your ego's defenses are in place. With the brain's inhibitory processes still weak, "A-ha!" moments come more readily.
3. They must be longhand. It takes longer to write by hand, and it's that slowness that allows us to connect with our emotions. Typing yields us speed while depriving us of depth.
4. You must fill in exactly three sides of US Letter paper. It turns out you can't really write about nothing for three whole pages.
5. Put it away. Crucially, Morning Pages are private. Not because you'll necessarily pour out secrets there, but because it's liberating to know you could.
6. Do your best to let go of the results.
7. Do it all again tomorrow.

Brain-sweep complete, it's time to get on with the day. Ready for a great one?

HUMANS

A Book by BRANDON STANTON

Right in time for the gift-giving season comes Brandon Stanton's deeply moving book, Humans. This enormous project actually began with the well-known bestseller, Humans of New York, which took the country by storm and carved a literary niche for the photojournalist.

Here, Stanton has gone global, featuring everyday people from more than 40 different countries. Despite the hardships of travel and language barriers, Stanton has been able to showcase his own rare gift - compelling people to bare their souls and share their personal stories. Each of these tales resonates deeply and is accompanied by extraordinary photos. Some lives we can easily relate to, as people tell of struggles with spouses, children, families, and jobs.

Others, it's harder for us to fathom: war, disease, hunger, and danger. Each story is so succinctly and lovingly told, accompanied by photographs of the unique person sharing it, that we feel we actually know these people. They could be our neighbors; they could be our friends; they could be us.

What the insightful Stanton has done in this volume is to remind us of our shared humanity. As humans, our struggles are universal. We're inherently empathetic beings and so, what affects one of us, affects all of us. It only takes us lifting our heads up and really seeing the incredible souls with whom we share this earth to feel that interconnectedness.

Humans will make you laugh, make you cry, and make you feel grateful to be human. It's an exquisite book and truly inspiring - think of it as an inspirational end to a very challenging year.
